Description: . Pen markings throughout book. The general election of 1990 may have broken the Labour party for ever. It went into the contest believing victory was there for the taking. Right up to the day before the poll. Wales too believed that a change of government was on the way. The shock of that early result from Basildon, which produced only a miniscule swing of 1.3% from Tory to Labour. reverberates still. Labours fourth Election loss in succession was far more devastating than the number of seats won would suggest, the partys gain of 42 seats was far less significant than its inability to manage a voting swing in Britain of more than 1.6%, and that in the depth of the United Kingdoms worst recession since the second world war.

Author: Barbara Weeks

Publisher: Halsgrove books

Edition:

Book Size: 290 x 210mm

Pages: 160

Volumes: 1

Condition: As New

Jacket Condition: As New

Binding: Hardcover

Description: Now a village, Lydford was historically an important town and borough, the boundaries once encompassing most of Dartmoor. The settlement is ancient, the church dating from ad650 and the castle from 1195, and for centuries tin and silver were mined and minted here . The Castle was the seat both of the feared Stannary Courts. and the prison to which its convicts (reputedly hanged first and tried later,)were sent. Over time however Ldford declined becoming an unattractive place to liveand consequently remained almost untouched even today the grid pattern of the main street and intersecting green lanes can be clearly seen, as can the town banks, and the ancient fort above the deep ravine carved out by the river Lyd. One could sat that Lydford is the jewel in the crown' of the Dartmoor National park and it is no surprise that it is guarded so carefully.

Being the outcome of much selection from what seemed memorable among the impressions and ideas of twenty years of London life. Muirhead Bone is known as one of the most distinguished living etchers, and his reputation was first established by his London etchings and drawings. Although no one can know very much about the world of London, he has seen it in his own way, and attempts to render his personal London to others. Except incidentally, he avoids history and every thing a guide book gives. But the London reader may find, when he lays down the book, that he now knows and feels London as he never did before, and the stranger may find that he knows something of London and the Londoners as the denizens know them.

The Windmills of Kent

Author: Jenny West

Publisher: Skilton & Shaw

Edition:

Book Size: 240 x 185mm

Pages: 126

Volumes: 1

Condition: Very Good

Jacket Condition: Very Good

Binding: Hardcover

Description: Book is in very good condition with protective cover. The Windmills of Kent gives interesting detail not only of each of these remaining mills but of Kent milling history during the last 700 years. Kent's first Windmill was recorded at Canterbury in about 1220, although both that and many hundreds which stood in the centuries to follow have fallen, the county still retains twenty nine windmills, a number of which are still in full working order.

Windmills in Sussex A Contemporary Survey

Author: Arthur C. Smith

Publisher: Stevenage Museum Publications

Edition:

Book Size: 300 x 210mm

Pages: 47

Volumes: 1

Condition: Very Good

Jacket Condition: No Jacket

Binding: Soft Cover

Description: Card cover Book is in very good condition. Early records of Windmills in Sussex start as far back as anywhere else in the country, that is the 12th century. However here we are only concerned with those that have survived into the 20th century, the earliest of which would have been built in the 18th century. The examination of old maps is one way of assessing approximately how many existed over a certain period of time.

Windmills in Shropshire Hereford and Worcester A Contemporary survey

Author: Wilfred A. Seaby & Arthur C. Smith

Publisher: Stevenage Museum Publications

Edition:

Book Size: 300 x 210mm

Pages: 26

Volumes: 1

Condition: Very Good

Jacket Condition: No Jacket

Binding: Soft Cover

Description: Card cover book has slight edgewear to corners. Otherwise book is in very good condition. The Windmills in Hereford and Worcester are so few that it has been possible to include them with the somewhat scanty remnants of Shropshire in one volume. The total for the counties here under review barely reaches one hundred and twenty in number over a period of some 700 years, while those which were still at work in the present century can certainly be counted on the fingers of both hands, if not on one.

100 Years in Somerset

Author: Monica Wyatt

Publisher: Bossiney Books

Edition:

Book Size: 235 x 185mm

Pages: 120

Volumes: 1

Condition: Good

Jacket Condition: No Jacket

Binding: Soft Cover

Description: Book has general wear. 100 years in Somerset is Monica Wyatt's first Somerset title for Bossiney, in which she provides the text for 125 photographs and old postcards. Words and illustrations span a century, showing changes in photography and the Somerset way of life, yet curiously they also capture the enduring quality that makes Somerset such a special place. As the Author says, Somerset is always changing but remains unchanged. Perhaps it is all this contrast and variety, and the county's rich peat of History, that makes Somerset people the way they are.
