Rockerama 25 Years of Teen Screen Idols

Author: Rob Burt

Publisher: Blandford Press

Edition:

Book Size: 280 x 210mm

Pages: 208

Volumes: 1

Condition: Good

Jacket Condition: No Jacket

Binding: Soft Cover

Description: Edgewear to covers. Discolouration to end pages. Otherwise Book has general wear. Packed with over 350 Stills, Rockerama takes a fond look at the rock and pop culture films of a quarter century and the screen idols they created. Are these our children ? cried horrified parents in the 50s as their teenagers turned into mumbling Brandos and Deans and went wild in the aisles to Bill Haley,s Rock around the clock and Presleys pelvic pulsing. Rock n Roll thrust these teeagers into a brand new world, and opened up a vast new market for movie makers. Ready made stars with their own huge followings could pack movie theatres regardless of acting ability, script or plot. New story lines were developed and old ones hepped up with a rock background. As the music and audiences became more sophisticated, so did the movies, but when seen today even the best can make us feel locked in a time warp. Here we remember the movie stars who made it through rock and the roack stars who made it through the movies, at the concerts, the love ins and the more sophisticated cinema verite of the late 60s and early 70s.
