Description: Book has been Rebound. ex lib with the usual stamps and markings. After you have made a few speeches you come to realize the importance of humour, drama, and inspiration in talk. You discover that information alone is likely to be a little dull. Audiences want more than the technical or educational phases of a subject. They hope, one can hardly say, except that the speaker will entertain and excite. You see, public speaking gets to be a commonplace routine. There are so many occasions when speakers exhibit merely the familiar patterns and patter of the radio and the platform. It is easier to be safe than saucy. There is a sad lack of imagination and style, and it is style, as Voltaire said long ago, that makes all the difference.
